A Good Motto to Remember

(Farmers cut this out)

Careful Straining and proper Cooling of Milk in water at this time of year is very essential to guard against loss. Both Dairymen and Manufacturers take big chances of loss if the Milk is not cooled just as carefully during winter months as in the summer. Do not trust to weather conditions. The Milk will not cool in the centre of the can fast enough to prevent high acidity unless proper stirring is applied.

Looks Bad in Russia

Ambassador Francis of the U. S. who has just returned home from Russia for the first time in two years makes the following statement "A reign of terror instituted by the Bolshevik, with the purpose of maintaining themselves in power, is prevailing in Central and Northern Russia," said the ambassador. "The outrages they have committed are incredible. I think it impossible to restore peace to Europe with chaos prevailing in Russia. In fact, with Germany practically uninjured industrially, I am persuaded that if a peace is negotiated with Bolshevik rule continuing, Germany in 20 years or a decade will be stronger than she was at the beginning of the war. She is familiar with the Russian character, and for a generation has been studying it to influence it. If this results, Germany, instead of having been defeated, will have gained a victory.

New Didsbury Hail Insurance Company's Bill Before Legislative Committee

The bill to incorporate the 50-50 Hail Insurance Co. which is being promoted by Parker R. Reed, H. B. Atkins, M. L. A., and others came up before the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature on Monday but was referred back to the law clerk for a full report of its effect. James Weir, Non-Partisan M. L. A. objected strenuously to the bill on the ground that it would come into direct competition with the government's new hail insurance scheme. Hon A. G. McKay, however, took the view that the new company offered no more competition than the private companies will offer.

Bad Fire at Olds

A fire which caused a big loss occurred at Olds early on Monday morning. The Olds Gazette, Hammond's grocery store, Frulling's office, Brinds livery and Dinti's livery, all on the east side of the track, were burnt out. The loss is estimated at about $30,000. The Olds Gazette will commence publication again just as soon as a new plant can be assembled.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

The W. C. T. U. parlor meeting held on Monday evening at the home, of Mr. and Mrs. Herman was a decided success, about 60 being in attendance.

Mrs. Reiber President of the W. C. T. U. acted as chairman. After the opening song, Mrs. Amacher led in prayer. A paper on the life of Miss Francis Willard, founder of the W. C. T. U., was prepared by Miss C. Rood, but in her absence was read by Mrs. G. Liesemer.

A duet was rendered by Miss A. Mueller and Mrs. Berscht. Mrs. H. Roeth gave a list of temperance questions regarding the care of the invalid. These questions were answered by several of those present, showing that alcohol not only useless but harmful to the system. Miss Ruth Brubacher's and Miss Laura Liesemer's recitations were enjoyed by all, also Miss Laura Liesemer's instrumental. A duet entitled "The Quarrel" was given by Orpha

EDITORIAL

Labor Unrest in Canada

It is worse than useless to attempt to ignore the fact that much unrest exists in Canada in the ranks of labor. It would, indeed, be the height of foolishness to close our eyes to the self-evident fact that such unrest is prevalent in many quarters. Rather, it is the part of wisdom to squarely face the fact and turn attention to the consideration and bringing into effect of measures designed to settle that unrest. Ignoring it, and failing to provide a remedy, will lead to trouble and invite disaster.

Canada has not been confronted with great strikes such as swept over the British Isles and occurred in many centres in the United States, but even these great industrial upheavals, which mean loss not only to both employer and employee but to the nation at large, may result in Canada unless great care is exercised and all classes in the community are prepared to adopt a "give and take" policy and meet each other in a spirit of conciliation prepared to accept fair and just compromises.

Whatever may have been the attitude of capital and employers in the past, there can be little doubt that one of the outcomes of the Great War has been a recognition on their part that in the new order of things that must in future prevail, the man who toils with hand and brain, whose one great asset in the world of business is his strength and ability to work, must receive adequate compensation, and must be accorded proper working conditions, including reasonable hours of labor, provision against sickness and old age, and better living conditions for his family.

These things the average employer of labor in Canada is ready to grant; in fact, only a negligible number of employers will be found who do not believe that these things are not only just and necessary, but that they will redound to his advantage as well as to the advantage, comfort and welfare of the workers he employs. Practically all employers are ready to treat their employees fairly, and are willing to meet with their employees and discuss all these problems with them. All that is necessary is for the men, their own employees, to approach them in a spirit of co-operation and not in a spirit of antagonism.

What the average employer resents more than anything else is the interference of outsiders, the bringing in of paid organizers and agitators, often without any real knowledge of actual conditions and the problems which call for solution, but whose business in life seems largely to be to create trouble. If local labor organizations, and the employees in any given industry, would learn to handle their own affairs and appeal to their employers at first hand for adjustment of their grievances they would, in the vast majority of cases, get quicker and more satisfactory results.

Why should the intelligent labor men of Canada contribute what amounts in the aggregate every year to an enormous sum from their wages for the maintenance of a small army of organizers and professional agitators to direct the affairs, and who, too frequently, incite them to unwise action and lead them astray. Frequently, these organizers in their ignorance of local conditions insist on impossible demands and trouble results. In an even larger number of instances, they are not so much concerned about the local situation, but are using it merely as a lever, regardless of the true interests of the local worker, to create a situation to their liking which they can use as a club in some other part of Canada or in another country.

The best solution of labor unrest in Canada, the best preventative of strike troubles which mean loss for all concerned, lies in the development of direct negotiation between an employer and his own employees, or local groups of employers and local groups of employees, without the interference of outsiders. Such action would quickly develop a new and better spirit of co-operation and mutual good-will. It would mean a tremendous saving of money to the workers, and would give them an independence and a dignity which they have largely lost through their reliance upon and subservience to the paid organizers they maintain and the professional agitators who live upon their hard won earnings.

In this new age, is not this new method worthy of a trial in progressive Canada?

WINTER HARD ON BABY

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Brandon Winter Fair

Several New Features for Juveniles Have Been Added

Winnipeg, Man. — Prize lists for the Brandon winter fair, which opens on March 3, show that this popular mid-winter exhibition has lost none of its popularity. Manager W. J. Smale and his board of directors have lost no time in shaping their program to take care of after-the-war phases, and when the stockman gets to the Wheat City he will find added inducement along the lines of mixed farming and stock raising. In the boys' fat calf competition the prize list has been extended to allow of 22 awards being made. Several new features for the juveniles have been added. There is $285 in prizes for steers calved in 1917. Over 60 cups, medals and specials are offered in the prize list this year. The annual bull sale is fixed to take two days, Tuesday and Wednesday. No date has been set for the swine sale.

With the Fingers!
Says Corns Lift Out
Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of freezone at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.

This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heeled foot-wear is putting corns on practically every woman's feet.

Germans Wanted
To Reject Terms

After Consultation with Party Leaders, Decision Was Changed

Weimar. — The German cabinet voted to reject the allied terms for the renewal of the armistice and take chances of an allied military advance being ordered. After consultation with the party leaders, however, the decision was changed, and orders were issued that the armistice be signed.

London. — The terms of the new military treaty to be imposed on Germany in lieu of the monthly armistice, and as a part of the final peace conditions will, according to the Daily Mail's Paris correspondent, include in addition to the destruction of the fortifications of Heligoland and the Kiel Canal and the opening of the canal to traffic, the immediate surrender of certain warships which have not yet been given up, as required, and the conversion of the status of the German fleet in the Scapa Flow from that of internment to surrender.

It may be taken, the correspondent adds, that these surrendered ships eventually will be destroyed, the idea of dividing them among the allies having been abandoned.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS
WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid
Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bismarck Magnesia at their meals. There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bismarck Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meat digests naturally and healthfully without need of peppermint pills or artificial digestants.

Get a few ounces of Bismarck Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bismarck form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and if it isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

Vancouver, B. C. — Within a few weeks the North West Mounted Police will be stationed in Vancouver. Soon the striking and historical uniform of these "scarlet riders of the plains" will become very familiar to the citizens of British Columbia, carrying with it the traditions and the honor upheld by these men in maintaining law and justice fearlessly throughout the great northwest of the Dominion for years past. The Vancouver exhibition association, at a recent meeting, received an application from the North West Mounted Police for accommodation at Hastings Park in order to establish their permanent quarters there. The application asked for accommodation for 150 men and the same number of horses. It was stated that the force wished to be established in the city by the first of March.

Vancouver, B. C. — The manufacture of that marvel of modern science—liquid air—is to be one of the chief commodities turned out in a new industry to be established in Vancouver very shortly. Vancouver has a number of unique industries established on a fairly large scale, but work is to be commenced at once on a new factory to house the most novel and up-to-date industry that has as yet located in the city. A permit for the construction of this new factory, the first unit of which is to cost $25,000 for the building alone, has been issued by the city building inspector.

Evidently some skaters of the neighborhood found a good piece of ice on the river by the Dog Pound bridge on the blind line, which accounts for the resounding sounds of mirth which were heard last Sunday afternoon and again on Tuesday night. Several of the young people were there with a sprinkling of married men.

Great excitement was caused last Thursday night when the school-mam could not be located. Some were afraid she was lost in the deep snow. Howbeit she turned up in time for school the next morning.

Unreserved Auction Sale Taking Place March 4th

Readers will have noticed in last week's Sales advertising columns of this paper, and again in this week's issue, the listing of Mr. George Parson's Sale, who on account of his recent bereavement, is selling his complete outfit of Stock and Implements to return to England.

His stock of cattle has been recognized by those who know them and have seen them, to have the appearance of Pure Bred Shorthorns and on account of their youth to be now at the money making stage.

A good many will know of Mr. Parson's Exhibit of Baby Beef at the Calgary Fat Stock Show this past Fall and have heard of his son receiving $124.00 in money and the Silver Cup as a prize for the best Baby Beef shown at that Exhibition. There are some more prize winners to be seen in this herd.

Heading the herd has been kept a Pure Bred Shorthorn Sire account for the young progeny that is on the farm. A young Pure Bred Shorthorn Bull of good breeding and type is to be sold under the hammer.

The horses are nearly all young, a number of the mares in foal, and are all of draft size with good flat heavy bone to carry them. Any of these would prove a good sound investment to any one who buys them.

The machinery and household effects being offered are of a good

Heals Inflamed Nostrils Stops Catarrhal Discharge Cures Colds Quickly

Poor remedies have given Catarrh the reputation of being incurable. But it is curable, easily and quickly, if the right method is employed. Snuffing a powder or ointment up the nose won't cure Catarrh, neither will tablets, douching, or stomach medicines cure. These treatments fail because they only affect local conditions, they do not remove the cause, which is germ life established in the lungs, bronchial tubes, and nasal passages. Ordinary remedies do not reach these remote parts, but Catarrhazone does, for it is breathed through the inhaler into every air cell in the lungs, into every air passage in the head and throat. No matter where the Catarrh is Catarrhazone will reach it. It kills the germs, heals sore spots, clears the nose and throat instantly. Universally used; pleasant and clean; guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

Don't be an object of aversion to everyone you meet—get Catarrhazone today and use it regularly; it will cure your Catarrh, Bronchitis, Croup, Trouble, spitting and gagging. Large size lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller size, 50c; sample size, 25c; at all dealers.

"Walters struck the rock first and was very quick with the rope; in fact, I was astonished at his coolness, because he must have got a heavy blow. He stopped the other fellow and they lay on the rock for a few minutes. Then Walters shouted: 'He's not to be trusted, and I can't climb back alone!'"

"Well, it was some moments before I could face the situation, but I told him to get down as fast as he could and send a rescue party with the other guide. He objected, but admitted that he saw no other plan, and I felt desperately lonely as I watched them crawl down the couloir. I don't know that I felt much worse afterwards, although it began to snow and my hands and feet seemed to turn to ice; two of my left fingers aren't of much use now. The ledge was wide enough to sit on, but slanted, and one had to be careful to keep from slipping off. The snow stopped, but when darkness came I'd given up hope of the rescue party's arriving in time. As a matter of fact, they were nearly too late, and I was in bed a month after they got me down; but Lucy can tell you the rest. You see, she saved my life."

A wave of color flushed Lucy's face. "When I reached the hotel I felt uneasy, and when it got dark and Lawrence didn't come I was alarmed. I had kept the guide who brought me home, and sent him to find some of his friends at a ranch not far off. They went back to look for Lawrence."

"You went back," said Lawrence reprovingly.

"As far as the first big crevasse; they wouldn't let me cross. But before this we met Walters and the other guide, who was drunk. Walters wanted to come with us, but I wouldn't allow him."

"You thought he was too tired?" Foster suggested.

Foster saw she would say no more about it, which seemed significant, and he let her go on.

"There is not much more to tell," she said with a shiver. "I was very anxious while I waited behind a hummock of ice, but at last I heard the men coming; they were carrying Lawrence, who couldn't walk. We got him down to the hotel—and I think that's all."

"But what became of Walters?" Foster asked.

"He stayed for a few days and we were glad when he had to leave. He was in the way when Lawrence was ill."

"Thank you," said Foster gravely and was silent for a time.

He understood why his comrade called Miss Stephen Lucy, although he had not known her very long. She had, no doubt, saved his life by hurrying off the rescue party and had afterwards taken care of him when he was ill. He thought Lawrence lucky, but was not justified in congratulating him yet, and had something else to think about. Lucy suspected Walters, though Lawrence did not, and Foster imagined that she had some ground for doing so. She had an obdurate story with full particulars, because it must have been painful to recall the matter.

"We'll say no more about it now, Miss Stephen," he remarked. "Lawrence and I are old friends, and I'm heavily in your debt."

Lucy looked up with a smile and a blush, and Foster understood what she meant when she answered: "I hope you will always be his friend."

Foster Sets Off Again

After dinner the party returned to the veranda, which was warm and well lighted. Mrs. Stephen resumed her sewing, Lawrence settled himself comfortably in his big chair, and Foster engaged Lucy in careless talk. She had a pleasant voice and pretty, animated gestures, and after the strain he had borne there was a charm in relaxing and lazily enjoying the society of an attractive girl. The trouble was that he could not be careless long. Lawrence was inclined to put off disagreeable things, and would no doubt sooner leave disturbing subjects alone; but Foster had only kept half his promise to Alice and time that might be valuable was being lost.

"Your adventure made an interesting story, Lawrence, but you took unusual trouble to make us understand all that happened," he said at length.

Lawrence's gesture hinted at humorous resignation. "You're a restless fellow, Jake, but I hoped you'd wait until tomorrow. You see, I've been warned to keep quiet."

Foster looked at Lucy and imagined that he had her support; she no doubt knew his comrade's weakness for procrastination.

"I'll try not to disturb you much," he replied.

"Then you and Lucy insisted on my relating the thing at length. I felt I had to indulge you."

Lucy's smile hinted that Foster must be firm.

"That wasn't quite enough. You had another motive."

"Oh, well," said Lawrence, "I suppose I wanted to recall the thing and see how it looked in the light of what you told me about your exploits in Scotland."

"They make it look different, don't they?" Lucy remarked.

Lawrence gave her a good humored smile and then turned to Foster. "Lucy's cleverer than me, but I really thought she was rather hard on Walters." He paused for a moment, and then resumed thoughtfully: "You must remember that my object was to keep out of Daly's way, and I thought I was safe as long as I could do so. One would have expected him to play a lone hand."

"Didn't you think there was something suspicious about Walters' turning up again after he'd learned your name? There then were rather too many coincidences."

"Suppose you enumerate them," Lawrence suggested.

"He urged you to try the mountains and followed you to Banff. Then I've no doubt he proposed the trip up the glacier, for which he chose the guides. He sent the best back with Miss Stephen and while this was of course, the proper thing, it's curious that the other got drunk. Walters gave him your flask. Then he fell when he threw the rope—at the only place where a fall would not have led to his shooting down the couloir. Afterwards, although speed was urgent, he was very slow in going back for help."

"Besides, he knew exposure to the frost would be very dangerous for you; you had told him you had been ill," Lucy interposed.

"I did," Lawrence agreed. "Of course if the fellow had wanted to make an end of me, it's obvious that he took a clever line; but people don't do that kind of thing for nothing. Suppose he was a friend of Daly's, it certainly wouldn't have suited the latter's plans."

"That," said Mrs. Stephen, "is what Lucy and I thought. You can be frank, Mr. Foster, because we know Lawrence's story."

"He was very wise to tell it to you," Foster replied and turned to his partner. "You imagined that Daly only wanted to extort money? Well, my explanation is that he had another object. We'll go back to the night Fred Hulton was shot. You thought you saw the watchman in the passage; was he far in front?"

"Perhaps a dozen yards; it's a long passage."

"He was going towards the office and stopped at the door, with his back to the light?"

"Yes; if he'd gone in I would have seen in face."

"And the remark you made indicated that you thought him the watchman?"

"Suggested it," said Lawrence thoughtfully. "There might have been a doubt."

"Exactly! The man saw you. The light shone out from the office behind him."

"Yes," said Lawrence, "I see your point. I don't think the fellow could have been certain I didn't get a glimpse at his face."

"You said nothing about the meeting at the inquiry, which might look as if you had been warned not to do so."

"Nobody asked a question that led up to it. I didn't learn he wasn't the watchman until afterwards."

Foster turned to the others. "I think my story has shown you that we have to deal with a gang of clever criminals. You'll note that Lawrence saw the only man who knows the truth about Fred Hulton's death."

Mrs. Stephen made a sign of understanding. Lucy shivered, then her eyes sparkled angrily, but Lawrence looked obstinate.

"Jake," he said rather drily, "you ought to have been a barrister! You have made a clever use of the evidence, but it has some weak points and leaves room for doubt. What are you going to do about it?"

"I'm going to start again tomorrow to look for Daly," Foster replied.

Lucy gave him a grateful glance, and Mrs. Stephen began to talk about something else. By and by she turned to Lawrence, who looked tired, and reminded him that it was past the time at which he ought to go to bed. He grumbled a little but went and soon Mrs. Stephen also left the others. Foster thought the girl wished this, but had not noticed that she gave her mother a hint. He felt rather awkward, but there was something to be said.

"I suppose you are going to marry my partner," he remarked.

"Yes," she replied with a pretty blush. "Are you surprised?"

"I'm not surprised that he should wish it. But somehow I hadn't contemplated Lawrence's marrying."

The girl's color deepened. "Are you very frank, or only tactless?"

"I was stupid," said Foster with

Heart Palpitated Could Count Every Beat

When the heart begins to palpitate, it will beat fast for several seconds, then slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over your whole system, accompanied by weak, fainting and dizzy spells.

When the heart gets into this condition, you become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Greives, Apsley, Ont., writes: "I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anemic, but did not help me with their medicines. I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat."

I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months. A cousin of mine had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and told me what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am able to help every day with the work. I am so thankful to tell others what they have done for me, so that they may try this great and wonderful remedy. I hope this may prove good to some one who is suffering the way I did."

some confusion. "But I didn't mean what you think. Far from it! My partner has made good. I'm glad you had the wisdom and pluck to see this."

"He is a very dear fellow," she answered with a soft gleam in her eyes that moved Foster. Then she smiled. "You are forgiven—and I must confess that at first my mother took the view I thought you hinted at. She said Lawrence ought to wait until all risk of the past's being brought to light was gone. But suppose when you guessed the truth it was something of a shock?"

"No," said Foster. "Although I haven't known you long, I feel that I won't lost my partner when he marries you. I was grateful when you said you hoped I would always be his friend."

Lucy nodded. "I saw you understood. Before we met, I was rather jealous of you—and curious. I think Lawrence sometimes makes mistakes about people."

"Walters, for example? Well, I like you to be careful about Lawrence, but hope you don't feel anxious now you have seen me."

"He needs a man friend and there's something about you that makes one feel you can be trusted," said Lucy, who smiled and gave him a "cavalier" glance. "You look ingenuous, but perhaps that's deceptive, in a way. I mean that I didn't quite understand you until you told us about your adventures in Scotland."

"Ah!" said Foster, "Carmen once said something like that, but she was blunt. She told me I wasn't quite such a fool as I look. However, I haven't much ground for boasting about my exploits. The main results were that I got myself suspected by the police, warned off Daly, and made Lawrence's father think I had murdered him. Now I'd much rather look a simpleton than a homicide!"

Lucy laughed, but her look was gentle. "We all make mistakes, Mr. Foster, but your object was good. Besides, I feel that you will carry it out yet."

Foster hesitated for a few moments, studying the girl. She had courage and he liked the way she took care of his comrade. In some respects, Lawrence needed to be guarded.

"I hoped you would stay when your mother went," he said.

She nodded. "Yes; I knew you had something to say."

"It's important. But first of all, I expect you had a bad time when Lawrence didn't come back from the mountain."

"I shall not forget it," Lucy said with a shudder. "While I waited and wondered why he didn't come I thought the anxiety intolerable, but it was worse after we met Walters and the drunken guide. He wanted to join us, but I knew he was somehow to blame."

"Afterwards you had to wait alone upon the glacier. That wouldn't make you think any better of him?"

"It did not," Lucy agreed, with a hard, fixed look. "I—you see, Lawrence was my lover—I spent two or three hours in agonizing suspense. I knew what I should feel when I stopped, but couldn't go on with the others, because I might have 'kept them back. It was freezing hard and now and then a little snow fell, but I scarcely noticed this; I was listening, as I hope I shall never listen again. Sometimes the ice creaked or a snow-bridge fell into the crevasse, but that was all, and afterwards the silence was awful. It seemed as if the men would never come. I couldn't go to meet them because of the crevasse; I dream about the horrible black opening yet. Lawrence was on the other side, out of my reach; he might be slowly freezing on the couloir, and I couldn't help. But I knew he was suffering for Walters' negligence or perhaps his treachery."

Foster made a sign of sympathetic comprehension. "You hate him for this?"

"Yes," said Lucy frankly; "but not altogether because I'm vindictive. The man who could make people suffer as Lawrence and I did ought to be punished."

"He ought. Well, I'm going to warn Lawrence, and no doubt the proper thing would be to be satisfied with this, but somehow I'm not. You see, Walters probably doesn't know we suspect him."

The girl's eyes narrowed and Foster knew she was afraid, but did not think fear was her strongest emotion.

"You mean he may try again?"

"That is what I mean. If he comes back, you must watch him, but keep him here until I arrive. If it's impossible for me to come, send for the police."

"Yes," said Lucy quietly, "I'll try." "There's another risk," said Foster. "He may send an accomplice; they're a well organized gang. In this matter, I'd sooner trust you than Lawrence." He stopped for a moment and gave her an apologetic glance. "Perhaps I've done wrong to alarm and put this heavy load on you."

"No," she said resolutely. "I have promised to marry Lawrence and must help him."

Then she rose and gave Foster her hand. "I must thank you for your confidence. If the need comes, I don't think I'll fail you."

Foster felt satisfied when she left him. Lucy was clever and had pluck. He had given her a hard part, but she would not shrink. One could trust a woman who was fighting for her lover.

Tortured For Nearly Two Years

MRS. PLANTE FOUND RELIEF
IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

She Tells How They Helped Her Kidney Disease and Made a New Woman of Her.

Ste. Florence, Que., Feb. 24, (Special).—"Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new person of me." The speaker is Madame M.L. Plante, of this place, and her numerous friends here fully verify her statement.

"For nearly two years," Mrs. Plante continues, "kidney disease tortured me. I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and made up my mind to try them, and to my surprise they did me good almost at once. Two boxes cured me completely. I recommend them to all my friends."

Mrs. Plante is only one of many who have had a similar experience. They were weak and run-down, and sick all over. Dodd's Kidney Pills helped them. How? Simply by curing the kidneys. The diseased kidneys were the cause of all the trouble. They were failing to strain the impurities out of the blood, and the result was disease all over the body. Dodd's Kidney Pills helped the kidneys, the impurities were strained out of the blood. The result was pure blood and good health all over the body. The cause of the disease had been removed.

More Schools for Manitoba

Eighty-four Consolidated Schools in Operation in the Province

Though there has been little perceptible increase in the adult population of Manitoba during the last three years, 125 more schools are now in operation in the province than there were at the beginning of that period. The progressiveness of the education department is shown in these increased facilities for education. There are also eighty-four consolidated schools in operation in the province, and preliminary steps have been taken to largely increase this number immediately. Consolidated schools are established by amalgamating adjacent districts and erecting multiple-roomed schools, making possible a higher grade of instruction than is possible in the smaller schools.

Make The Returning Soldier Welcome

THIS is an important hour for Canada. The nation is entering on a new era. It is passing from war to peace. Let us start this new era right. There are thousands of soldiers returning from overseas. The Government is doing all in its power to get these men back to civil life.

It is giving a War Service Gratuity—more than any other nation—to keep the soldier going till he gets a job.

It gives him a pension—where his usefulness is impaired by his service.

It teaches a man a new trade when his service unfits him for his former trade.

It gives him free medical treatment when illness recurs, and supplies free artificial limbs and surgical appliances.

It is bringing back to Canada at the public expense the soldiers' dependents now overseas.

But the Government, however willing, cannot provide the personal touch needed in this work of repatriation. That must be given by the people themselves.

The men who went from these parts to fight in Flanders deserve a real welcome home—the best we can give.

In most towns committees of citizens have already been organized to meet the soldiers and their dependents at the station, to provide hot meals, supply automobiles, afford temporary accommodation when necessary.

In addition, many other towns are organizing social gatherings to give public welcome to returned men after they have been home a few days.

After he has rested, the soldier must be provided with an opportunity for employment. In towns of 10,000 population, Public Employment Offices have been established to help soldiers, as well as war-workers, secure good jobs quickly. Where these exist, citizens should co-operate. Where they do not exist, the citizens themselves should help put the soldier in touch with employment.

The fighting job is done. It has cost many a heart-burning. But it has been well done. The least we can do is to show our appreciation in no uncertain manner.

Don't let the welcome die away with the cheers.

SCIENTIFIC FARMING AND THE NEED OF AN AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

ADDING MILLIONS TO THE WEALTH OF CANADA

The Application of the Principles of Scientific Farming Makes For the Possibility of Vastly Increasing the Production on Our Farms and Brings Fresh and Progressive Ideas to Farmers

Canada is primarily an agricultural country.

In practical education, therefore, a first consideration should be agricultural education.

What meagre sums we have expended in agricultural education in comparison with the importance of the industry!

We have done a lot for the farmers, some contend.

As a matter of fact we have done comparatively little for our farmers.

Speaking of farming, how many minds, when thinking of farming, go beyond the mere thought of a plow, a team of horses, a mow, a binder, a shanty, and plenty of hard work.

Compared with a little country like Denmark we in Canada are in our infancy in the matter of scientific farming.

Some men—and women, too—imagine that any technical farming education which takes a few of our sons out of overalls and smocks and turns them into expert teachers and counsellors is dangerous.

Yet, if we look about Canada today and seek out the individual who has done most to promote wealth in Canada, would we be far amiss in naming Dr. Saunders, the man who gave Marquis wheat to the nation and the world? He might have farmed eighty or a hundred acres, kept a few cows and horses, made a living quietly and unostentatiously and never been heard of. But he followed along lines of scientific agriculture, he profited by his technical education, and his hours were spent in the laboratory and watching the result from a few heads of grain raised under special conditions and for a special purpose. The sum total of his study will ultimately add hundreds of millions of dollars to the wealth of Canada. We have not the time to tell the story of a life of devotion to scientific agriculture, but we do know that from the commercial or financial standpoint this one student of scientific farming has done more for Canada than many captains of industry, or great railway builders or kings of finance, or statesmen. All the money spent in Canada for scientific agricultural education has been worth while if we could point to no other product of our agricultural colleges than Dr. Saunders. To make our point plainer, his experiments, finally applied to farming, mean an average increase on every acre sown to wheat of nearly four bushels, and a greater guarantee from frost danger, by reason of the earlier ripening of the new variety of wheat.

Agricultural education!

It has been little short of a joke. We have not, as yet, given serious consideration to agricultural education. Our parliamentarians, as well as the press and public, have been neglectful of agricultural education.

We cry out in one breath for more agricultural education, but we forget to say in another breath that the means and facilities must be provided.

True, in Manitoba we have spent millions on Agricultural College buildings—speculating politicians of other days are aware of the fact—but how much concentrated general public interest has there been on the educational side?

At the present moment we are face to face, afresh, with the question of agricultural education. It is proposed to sell the present splendidly equipped Agricultural College buildings and site to the Dominion government, take the old buildings and small site up the Assiniboine river in part payment, put away a balance of $1,600,000 in the treasury, and start practically anew.

Is the move a wise one? We do not pretend to say. But we do know that the matter is one of such vital and vast importance to the province and the nation, that we should consider well every step before anything irrevocable is done. The best counsel should be called in. $1,600,000 looks very tempting in times like these. But in some matters the saving of money means retarding the progress of the country. Education of every character means expenditure and the more and better the education the greater the financial outlay. Upon second thought, therefore, if the sale of the present Agricultural College buildings, means retardment of agricultural education, are we really saving? Even the interruption of certain alfalfa tests, now in progress for two or three years, might mean more of a loss to the province than all we should gain.

We look to see the day in Manitoba when the science of farming shall be better understood. We have referred to the absolute necessity and the possibility of vastly increasing our production on the present acreage. The science of farming taught in our college and in some of our schools must bring fresh and progressive ideas into farming. Instead of so many herds of scrub stock, scientific farming will introduce thoroughbred stock. Contrast a fine stock farm with the ordinary scrub stock farm.

Lack of education today results in a loss annually, in this province alone, amounting to millions of dollars. We are not speculative in our ideas; we are dealing with proved facts, established by the experience of other countries.

Again, let us add that it is not for us to say what the immediate policy should be with respect to the Agricultural College buildings, but we appeal to our government and to every citizen, to weigh well every fact and phase of the whole educational question, before taking any step which may stop, if only for a time, progress towards better farming in the banner agricultural province—by nature at least—of the whole Dominion—Winnipeg Tribune.

Deserved His Reward

Splendid Record of United States Aviator

The splendid story of a young aviator—First Lieut. Edwin C. Chamberlain, U. S. Marine Corps—who during a two days' "unofficial" visit to a British aerodrome at the front to gather information won a recommendation for the V.C. and the American Medal of Honor, as well as for promotion to a captaincy, is told by Mr. John Russell in a report which is issued by the American public information committee. His astonishing record is stated thus:

Took part in a fight with twelve German planes.

Smashed five of them while his own machine was badly crippled.

Shot down two others.

Enabled his British companions to escape.

Swooped out of the air, and charged headlong into a detachment of Hun infantry and routed it.

"Bluffed" three Germans with a fake grenade, and took one of them prisoner.

Rescued a wounded French soldier. Swam a river under fire while he drove the prisoner before him and carried the wounded man.

And would not give his name for fear of being scolded.

"No, sir, I got tired of being mistook for a deer."

"I don't blame you. How do you earn your living now?"

SPLENDID COURAGE OF CANADIANS WAS SHOWN IN CAMBRAI BATTLE

WITHSTOOD TERRIBLE GRUELLINGS OF ENEMY

Major-General Sir David Watson Says That Battle Was the Hardest Fight of Canadians and Was One of the Most Creditable Occurrences During the Great War

Filing Sodium Deposit Claims

Have Been Staked on the Bottom of the Lake

Farmers and others in the vicinity of Whiteshore Lake, about 60 miles west of Saskatoon, have joined in a small stampede to stake what are claimed to be potash-bearing strata under the lake and on its borders. All the claims are located in township 37, range 16; and township 36, range 15. Whiteshore Lake is a long, narrow body of water about 18 miles in length and from one to three or four miles wide. The claims have been staked on the bottom of the lake and along the shore line.

The claims are being staked as containing "sodium sulphate and other minerals." Although nothing is said regarding the potash in the claims as filed, the words "and other minerals" are intended to include the potash.

The district is not the first one containing sodium salts to be found in Saskatchewan. Several other districts have been located during the past few months.

How the Canadian corps had to fight eighty-four German battalions at Cambrai, is shown in a letter which the minister of militia has received from Major General Sir David Watson, commanding the Fourth Canadian division at the front.

"When one comes to sum it up," Sir David writes, "I find that there were no less than 13 divisions, consisting of eighty-four battalions, pitted against us during the first terrible days. The Boche actually threw in division after division, and unit after unit, regardless of cost, in his attempt to stop our victorious progress. It was actually the hardest fighting that our Canadians have been up against and the manner in which they took these terrible gruelling and stood these assaults during these days, is one of the most creditable occurrences in the annals of this great war."

Sir David also praises the work of reinforcements, "who had joined up just before these last operations, and who, I am sure, you will be delighted to learn, stood it through so gallantly and courageously, as to fit them to be true comrades in every respect of the gallant men with whom they have become associated."

Britain Must Keep a Strong Army on Rhine

London.—Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of state for war, paid a high tribute to Premier Clemenceau at a luncheon given at the Mansion house on the subject of demobilization and the army of occupation. The object of the meeting, said Mr. Churchill, was to ask the employers throughout the country to do their best to assure the men who had been retained in the army that they would keep their places open for them, as they had been doing in the past.

"We have introduced a new scheme for the organization of an army appropriate to the immediate situation under which we propose to retain about 900,000 men for the defence of the British and allied interests during 1919," he continued. "We are letting go three men out of every four serving with the colors on November 11 last year, when the fighting stopped, and we are paying the fourth man double to finish up the job. All information received goes to show that the soldiers regard this treatment of the problem as essentially fair."

"We are engaged at the present time in forming a voluntary army to garrison the British empire, replacing the old army, which served us so well through the years of peace, and was not found wanting when the hour of battle came. But at least a year will be required to form this voluntary army. At the present time, we are obtaining recruits and volunteers, some with two or three years service, at the rate of more than a thousand a day, and the rate is rising."

"If we disperse completely the present compulsory army before we get a voluntary army, we should not only lose the fruits of the war, but lose the British empire we had before the war. We should not only not be able to discharge our responsibility in Palestine and Mesopotamia and with regard to Turkey, but India, Egypt, Gibraltar, Malta and all our great fortresses would be left totally undefended."

"The British people have never failed to do what was necessary to safeguard the vital interests of the state. Let them beware who would try to rob us of the fruits of victory, whether they are Germans or Turkish enemies abroad, or bad citizens at home."

"There is another reason why we require to maintain a large force in the present year. We have just had a war with Germany; we have spent a great deal of money and have lost a great many of our best men in winning the war, and we are going to make sure that we do not have to fight that war with Germany over again."

"We are going to take measures which will make it physically impossible for Germany to begin a war of revenge, at any rate during our lifetime. We are going to ask Germany to agree to those measures and help us carry them out. And after she has agreed, we are going to stand by and see that she does carry them out, not only in the letter, but in the spirit."

Helping the Soldiers

Best Stock at Lowest Price for Returned Men

Ottawa.—An organization is being brought into effect at once in connection with the operations of the soldier settlement board, whereby soldier settlers on farms will be sure of full value for their outlay for live stock. In alliance with the livestock branch of the department of agriculture, the board will secure the best class of stock at the lowest price.

It is also intended to standardize buildings and equipment as far as possible, and purchase supplies in trainload lots, thus obtaining the advantage of low prices that could not be secured if the soldiers were left to buy in the open market.

Influenza in Paris

Paris.—There has been a great increase during the past week in the number of cases of influenza reported. In Paris the number of deaths registered during the past three weeks from the disease or maladies resulting from it were respectively 284, 370 and 550.

Britain Faces

Responsible Task

Viscount Bryce Delivers Message to Canadian Citizens in London

London.—"Providence has ordained the British to be the race to do more for the welfare of mankind than any other people," declared Viscount Bryce at a meeting of Canadian citizens in London.

"Let us see," he continued, "that we as an empire never fail in this great and responsible task. Many of you are returning to your native land full of honors, and conscious that you have done your part in saving, not only the empire, but civilization. You will be honored by succeeding generations as the heroes of Trafalgar and Waterloo are honored."

"I hope you will return home with a full appreciation of how much Great Britain loves her dominions, and how grateful she is for the golden services they have rendered to her. Our gratitude for that service is only equalled by the admiration for the valor and spirit of the men from the dominions. Do not forget what vast power for good there is in the union of British-speaking peoples who are in touch with all the other races of the world. It is impossible to exaggerate the wonderful influence that the tongue of the British races has upon the other peoples of the world."

Tonnage Lost by France

Only One-fifth of That Suffered by Great Britain

Paris.—A full list of the French naval losses in the war, which has been published, includes four battleships, the Bonvet, Suffren, Gaulois and Danton; four armed cruisers, the Admiral Gambetta, Admiral Charner, Cleber and Dupetit Thouars, and one fast cruiser, the Chateau Renault. There were, besides, fourteen destroyers, eight torpedo boats and fourteen submarines lost. One of the submarines, the Durie, was refloated by the enemy, but was subsequently recovered. The minor ships which were sunk were five auxiliary cruisers, four gunboats, 72 submarine chasers, one sloop and seven small craft.

The loss in tonnage was 110,000 tons against 550,000 tons for Britain, 76,000 tons for Italy and 17,500 tons for the United States.

Want Representative Meeting

National Industrial Conference Will Be Convened on February 27

London.—The ministry of labor announces that the national industrial conference will be convened on February 27 at Westminster, and that it is desired that the conference be as fully representative of British labor as possible.

According to unofficial statements, 500 invitations have been issued and Sir Robert S. Horne, labor minister, will preside. The conference is expected to make its report by the end of March.

At an emergency meeting of the consultative committee of labor's triple alliance, it has been agreed that, in view of the government's action in calling the conference, "nothing should be done precipitately to bring the trades union movement into disrepute."

Dual Leadership Suggested

Ottawa.—Succession to Sir Wilfrid Laurier as leader of the opposition continues the one topic of political speculation. Mr. Fielding's name is apparently most in favor, although there is some disposition to question whether he would be acceptable to the French members who would constitute a majority in the party caucus. A suggestion is made in some quarters that some form of dual leadership—with Mr. Fielding and Mr. Lemieux—might be arranged for the session.

Ask $15 Increase

Winnipeg.—A flat increase of $15 per month for all civic employees is the demand to be presented at the special council meeting to be held on the wages question, it is learned. Increased cost of living is the basis of the demand. The demand if granted, will add $170,000 to the city's payroll.

Why Rantzan Resigned

Basel.—Count von Brockdorff-Rantzan, the German foreign minister, told the German cabinet that he would resign if Germany's conditions in reference to a renewal of the armistice were rejected, according to a Weimar dispatch to the Frankfort Zeitung. He said it would be impossible for him to continue his foreign policy while the French were "notoriously aiming at a resumption of hostilities."

When the armistice was signed the foreign minister resigned. The cabinet requested him to remain in office, which he then consented to do.

Premier of France Shot by Anarchist

Paris.—Premier Clemenceau, characterized by Lloyd George as "France's grand old man," was attacked by an anarchist, Emile Cottin, known as "Milou." Seven shots were fired, three of which struck the premier. One bullet lodged in the muscles of the shoulder, penetrating deeply, but so far as it is at present known, not injuring the spine or penetrating the lungs. Two bullets bruised the right arm and hand, while two other bullets are reported to have passed through the premier's clothing.

At the time of his attempted assassination M. Clemenceau had just left his home to drive in a motor car to the conference with Arthur J. Balfour, British secretary for foreign affairs, and Col. Edward M. House, of the American peace delegation. Though bleeding profusely, M. Clemenceau was able to return to his home, where he reassured the members of his household and waved aside anxious enquirers with "It is nothing." Latest reports from his attendants are to the effect that his condition was satisfactory and that he was cheerful throughout the day despite occasional fits of coughing. For the present, it has been decided by the surgeons that the extraction of the bullet may not be necessary, and arrangements have been made for the taking of radiographs of the injured parts.

Cost of War Amazes Germans

Amount Is 161,000,000,000 Marks Says Minister of Finance

Weimar.—The German people generally do not understand clearly the financial situation in which the war has left them, and they are too optimistic, declared Dr. Schiffer, the minister of finance, in an address to the German national assembly. He apparently astonished the house when he gave the statistics to show that the war had cost 161,000,000,000 marks.

Dr. Schiffer then asked that the assembly vote a credit in the form of a loan for 25,300,000,000 marks, the greatest loan the German people ever have been asked to raise. He explained that last October the government stood on the verge of financial exhaustion. It asked for a credit of 15,000,000,000 marks, but when this was refused raised it by means of bank note issues. The speaker was applauded when he remarked that truth and openness should be the basis of all politics and finance.

The daily expenditure during the war, Dr. Schiffer added, ranged from 49,000,000 marks in 1914 to 135,000,000 in 1918. The minister explained that there had been a steady decrease in expenditures since the signing of the armistice.

The minister condemned the waste throughout the war and characterized the war finances as "a program of desperation." He said that the soldiers' and workmen's councils since the war had at times been accused unjustly but unfortunately too many councils were not of advantage to the government financially.

Bavaria Faced by Internal Trouble

Berlin.—The Bavarian government of Premier Eisner is faced with a serious internal situation, according to dispatches received here. The Munich correspondent of the Anzeiger Zeitung says that the garrisons in Munich and Nuremberg are recruiting troops for the express purpose of opposing Eisner, his Spartan and Independent Socialist followers and the soldiers' council.

The same report states that the Spartans, who are temporarily in control at Nuremberg, will be thrown out by troops, brought in from the outside if necessary. A Munich dispatch to the Vorwarts says that a solution of the government crisis cannot be delayed longer.

Two Subs for Canada

Ottawa.—The British admiralty has offered as a gift to the Canadian naval forces two submarines now at Bermuda. Sir Robert Borden, on behalf of the Dominion, has accepted the offer.

The lords commissioners of the admiralty trust that this gift will be accepted as some recognition of the great contribution made to the defence of the empire by the Canadian naval forces in the course of the war.

A Timely Talk to Boys

An Address Given by E. W. Beatty, President C.P.R., at the Y.M.C.A. Educational Classes, Montreal

E. W. BEATTY, PRESIDENT C.P.R.

"A man, from his shoulders down, is worth $2.50 a day, but from his shoulders up, there is no limit to his earning capacity," said Mr. E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in a talk to the employed boys of the evening educational classes of the Y.M.C.A.

"When I was coming down in the train from Ottawa this afternoon, I thought of you boys and the work you are doing, and it brought back my own school days. I first started college in Toronto, my family having moved there when I was 11 or 12. I was a day pupil at the college. I did not believe in work, however, and I did very little studying. My nickname was 'Banty.' I indulged in numerous scraps, and spent most of my time after school hours doing the thing I should have done when school was in. At the end of the year a report was sent to my parents, and I think, without boasting, that was the worst report ever written about any boy. At the end of the report was a note, to the effect that if I did not return to the college at the beginning of the next term, the principal could get along without me. I think perhaps he was right. I was humiliated and ashamed of myself, and I believe everybody knew I was of no particular use."

"I was sent to another school, where my record was not known, for which I was thankful. I there fell into the hands of a tutor who, though a good teacher, had a very violent temper. He encouraged us when he was not abusing us. If a fellow showed inattention he was likely to be hit on the head with a ruler; but the first words of encouragement I ever received came from that man. He told me I might amount to something, which was news to me—I had never heard it before; in any event he gave me an inspiration to study, so I worked, and the more I worked, the more I realized how valuable it was, which fact I continued to appreciate as I grew older."

"I never saw a boy or a man who got anywhere if he did not work," went on Mr. Beatty. "I know you boys have given up a great deal to take on these extra studies, but none of you will ever regret it. As you grow older you will find the competition between men very keen, and he who is fairly well educated has a distinct advantage over the man who is not. Every boy has some kind of a vague idea he would like to be something or other when he grows up, he does not know just what. You will, however, find there are three or four simple things that tend to a man's success. The first is good health. It is impossible for a boy or a man to work against that handicap. The next thing is honesty. No man in this, or any other country, who was not honest, attained success; he may appear to do so for a time, but when his dishonesty is discovered, which it will be sooner or later, his success is at an end and his failure begins. The third essential is education; without education it is impossible to climb to any important position; and the fourth essential is work. Nothing was ever accomplished without work, and if any man tells you differently, it is not the truth. During the coming years many capable men will be required to fill important positions, and he who has the essentials to which I have referred is the one who will get the preference."

With regard to the attributes of a man, Mr. Beatty said: "The things we admire most in other men are the qualities we should develop in ourselves. The first is honesty, the second courage, and the third modesty. Without courage one cannot go very far in this world. If a man is content to step aside for others, he is bound to lose. Without modesty no one can secure the respect of his fellow beings. Every man's hand is against the man who shows he believes himself better than others. When I was a youngster, my father, who was a very wise man, used to say: 'Never think you are better than anybody else, but always think you are just as good.' Modesty is a quality I suppose I should apologize for mentioning, for it has become very unpopular and is now almost obsolete; nevertheless, it is one of the finest qualities a boy or man could have."

"I understand that with your studies you mingle a little play, which is a good thing. Every boy should play every game he is adapted for; he usually works well who plays well. I am not yet very old, and every night between September and May, when I am in Montreal, if I do not have a hard forty minutes' handball, I feel I am depriving myself of something I need. A man should have a sound body as well as a sound mind, and the two go hand in hand."

In conclusion, the speaker said: "In the work you have taken up at the Y.M.C.A. you are not now aware of the advantages you are laying up for yourselves, but these will develop as the years proceed, and I assure you that I wish you all the greatest possible success."—From the Montreal Gazette, Jan. 10, 1919.

Seed Importation Regulations

Canadian farmers and gardeners are protected from the evils of planting inferior seed of many kinds of crops imported from other countries. By an order-in-council that came into effect in the autumn, importation is prohibited of unfit seed of clovers, grasses, vetches, rape, other forage plants, field root and garden vegetables in lots of ten pounds or more.

In Pamphlet S-12 of the Seed Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, and obtainable from the Publications Branch, unfit seed is described as that which does not comply with the Seed Control Act requirements respecting the sale of seed in Canada, or if it has been refused admittance into any other country on account of low vitality.

The regulations will be carried out through the Custom's officials who are required to take and forward to the Dominion Seed Laboratory for examination, sample of lots of seeds of the classes named entered for consumption in Canada. Seed that has arrived in Canada and found to be unfit shall be deported under Customs supervision. The penalty for failing to comply with these regulations is $500 for the first offense and not exceeding $1,000 for the second and each subsequent offense.

Gore News

(Too late for last week's issue)

Gore School boasts an attendance of twenty-two pupils. Hurry up Jutland or we will catch up to you.

Services conducted by Rev. Gugin are held in the school every two weeks. A week ago on Sunday evening there was a scarcity of vacant seats and we hope the good attendance will not cease.

Can you name a district in which the people change residences more frequently than they do in Gore.

Mrs. Anderson and two children are expecting to move to Castor soon.

Mr. Steiss has sold his farm to Mr. R. Munson.

We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Doll and family into our neighborhood. Jutland says they have moved to a warmer climate. Perhaps it is warmer near the Gore, it generally is in closer quarters.

Church Notice

Lest some might forget, we want to remind the public that the E. V. church is working hard to catch up to where it was before the flu. To do this we need the co-operation of all interested in its progress. Our motto is "Forward".

The S. School out-side of the home is the best religious training. We believe we have a good staff of Officers and Teachers who are well able to give the children and grown ups the best of training.

We would also call attention to the Y. P. A. We are planning and preparing for special development along this line. Every member should be on the job and invite others.

And then once more, let us draw your attention to the special music we are being favored with. The choir has organized itself and has purchased anthems composed by America's most popular religious singer, Homer A. Rodeheaver. We are sure that this will be of special interest to you.

The regular order of the services is as follows: Sunday school at 2 o'clock p.m. preaching at 3 p.m. and again at 7.30 p.m.

Junior Y.P.A. Tuesday at 7.30 p.m. and Seniors at 8 p.m.

Prayer Service Thursday's at 8 p.m.

We believe in the power of prayer. Let us make the prayer meeting a live wire for the church.

The Services for Sunday March, 2nd., are as follows: Sunday school at 2 o'clock p.m. Preaching at 3 o'clock.—Subject, "The Believer's Circle"—1 Pet., 3:12-17. Preaching again at 7.30 p.m.—Subject, "A Trip on The Bible Car."—Isa., 12:3.

You are always Welcome,

"Wireless Lighthouses" For Flying Pilots

Will Be of Great Value in Foggy Weather

At present, the weather is the great natural enemy of aviation, but before long it will be fully conquered. Two things are needed for victory. One is the multiplication of meteorological stations so that aviators may have fore-knowledge of the weather conditions they are likely to meet on long flights. The second is the use of direction-finding wireless apparatus. This apparatus is a British war product and is at present a secret, but we shall soon learn all about the means by which British inventors were able to provide aircraft with instruments which indicated the distance and direction of wireless stations on land. Aircraft so equipped can fix their position frequently, can report to their base at any moment where they are, what course they are steering and whether they are in any difficulty. Thus the imperial "wireless chain" will be an indispensable factor in the organization of long-distance flying. The direction-finding wireless instruments will, of course, be of great value to shipping in foggy weather or when the clouds prevent the steering of a course by the stars.

Soldiers on Farms

Winnipeg, Man. — Immediate release of all soldiers and sailors in Canada who are required on Manitoba farms, is demanded by farmers of the province. A strongly worded resolution to this effect was unanimously passed at the Union of Manitoba Municipalities' convention, Winnipeg, recently. Hon. Arthur Meighen, minister of the interior, declared that, in his opinion, the request of the municipalities should be granted, and he will take up the matter immediately on his arrival in Ottawa.

Should Submit Terms to People

London. — The view that the terms of peace with Germany should be settled before the organization of a society of nations is dealt with, was expressed in the house of commons by Horatio W. Bottomley.

The speaker declared that the government would lose a large part of its majority if it brought to the house the draft of a peace treaty which had to be accepted or rejected without alteration. The preliminary treaty, he said, should be initiated and then submitted to the people of each country.

Mr. Bottomley said he was not sure that if that were done, President Wilson would find that he spoke with such absolute authority for the United States.

THIS IS AN AGE OF WEAK NERVES

Men and Women Alike Suffer From This Serious Ailment

"No heart for anything" is the cry of thousands of men and women who might be made well and strong by the new, rich red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make.

Misery day and night is the lot of hosts of men and women who are today the victims of weak nerves. Thin, pale, drawn faces and dejected attitude tell a sad tale, for nervous weakness means being tortured by morbid thoughts and unaccountable fits of depression. These sufferers are painfully sensitive and easily agitated by some chance remark. Sleeplessness robs them of energy and strength; their eyes are sunken and their limbs tremble; appetite is poor and memory often fails. This nervous exhaustion is one of the most serious evils affecting men and women of today. The only way to bring back sound, vigorous health is to feed the starved nerves, which are clamoring for new, rich blood. This new blood can be had through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which fact accounts for the thousands of cures of nervous diseases brought about by this powerful blood builder and nerve restorer. Through a fair use of this medicine thousands of despondent people have been made bright, active and strong, among these is Miss Bibiane Chiason, South Beach, Que., who says: "I am a teacher by profession, and probably due to the close confinement and arduous nature of my duties I became much run down and suffered from extreme nervousness. The least noise would startle me, and my heart would beat violently. Indeed my condition was an unhappy one. I had often heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure for nervous troubles and decided to give them a fair trial. I am happy to say that this medicine completely restored my health, and I can confidently recommend it to all suffering from nervous troubles."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

They Soothe Excited Nerves.—Nervous affections are usually attributable to defective digestion, as the stomach dominates the nerve centres. A course of Parlee's Vegetable Pills will still all disturbances of this character, and by restoring the stomach to normal action relieve the nerves from irritation. There is no sedative like them and in the correction of irregularities of the digestive processes, no preparation has done so effective work, as can be testified to by thousands.

The British Spirit

Generosity for Beaten Foe Is Instinctive

The British were an imperial race far back in their history, but never did they manifest it so superbly as on November 21 of immortal memory. Not even the genius of Shakespeare or Aeschylus ever conceived of a setting so vast and magnificent of the whole world as an unseen audience, as it were, or of panoramic might on such a vast scale. But there was little material in the impression given by the unprecedented spectacle in the North sea. It was mainly spiritual. The soul of the navy, the greatest expression of the soul of Britain, dominated everything. In the hour of its long-delayed triumph its conquest over a deadly enemy was thrown into high relief by its conquest over itself. The vanquished was brought captive to the Forth in silence. But it might be thought that such restraint was due to discipline. That was not so. For civilians on small craft, which crowded the river as the naval procession entered, were equally restrained. Playing the game is national. It is not sophisticated sense of knowing the right thing to do, but instinctive, springing from a generous heart. The German as a foe wallowed in devilry, but in the hour of his abasement Britons, naval and civilian, added nothing to it that was not absolutely necessary. Chivalry was out of the question, so was pity. There was nothing for generosity to take refuge in but silence.

Alberta Beef Brings Highest Price

Mannell Brothers, of Macleod, sold their beef a few weeks ago, shipping their choice steers to the Chicago market, where they obtained the highest price yet received for prairie fed beef. The trainload netted an average of over $180 a head and Mr. Mannell is delighted with the result of his shipping to the stock market in the southern city. The balance was bought by the P. Burns Co., and are being shipped to the Pacific coast markets. Mannell Bros. are noted for their quantity and quality of the beef they prepare for market, and so have many bidders for whatever they have to sell.—Lethbridge Herald.

Child Had St. Vitus' Dance

And Was Losing Control of Arms and Legs Because of Exhausted Condition of Nerves—Doctor Said He Could Do Nothing, But Complete Cure Was Effected

Cordova, Man., March 4. — To parents who are anxious or worried about the health of their growing children this letter must prove a message of good cheer. So many cures similar to this one have come to our attention that we are forced to consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the most effective treatment available for St. Vitus' Dance and all such conditions which result from nervous exhaustion.

To children who are naturally nervous the strain of school life is often more than they can bear, and the results are seen in headaches, eye troubles, loss of appetite and indigestion. The use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at such times soon puts them on their feet and restores health and vigor.

Mrs. Wm. Matt. Cordova, Man., writes:

"My little girl, ten years old, was not very well, and I noticed some rather odd ways about her. She used to act very strangely at times. I asked the doctor what could be the matter, and he said she had St. Vitus' Dance; to keep her quiet and out of school. He said treatments weren't any use for her. She was affected in this way for a year. I thought something ought to be done, so in looking over Dr. Chase's Almanac I read several testimonials from people who had used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I sent for six boxes and started this treatment with my daughter. Before she had finished the first box I could see a great change in her, and by the time she had taken the six boxes she was completely cured. She is real well now, and going to school every day."

"Another daughter of mine has found Dr. Chase's Catarrh Powder very beneficial, and we always keep the Kidney-Liver Pills on hand as a household remedy for backache, etc."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Historical Museum Proposed

For Preservation of Alberta's Records and Relics

Edmonton, Alta. — That a museum be established for the preservation and exhibition of the historical relics and records pertaining to the early development of Alberta, was the suggestion made at a meeting of the Alberta Historical Society, which is about to be reorganized. The provincial government may be asked for some assistance in the way of a grant with which the work can be financed. The idea was supported by the lieutenant-governor, Mr. Brett, who pointed out the desirability of preserving the historical records of both northern and southern parts of the province. The establishment of a society for historical research was also suggested.

At the present time there is no museum of this kind in the province, although there are several splendid collections of relics of the early days, and of the Indian work, which is rapidly deteriorating. It was at one time suggested that the old Ft. Edmonton, situated on the banks of the Saskatchewan south of the legislative buildings, be restored and utilized for this purpose, but in the spring of 1914 the buildings were torn down and the ground upon which they stood leveled in accordance with the scheme of landscape gardening being worked out on the grounds of the legislative buildings.

Miller's Worm Powders do not need the after-help of castor oil or any purgative to complete their thoroughness, because they are thorough in themselves. One dose of them, and they will be found palatable by all children, will end the worm trouble by making the stomach and bowels untenable to the parasites. And not only this, but the powders will be certain to exert most beneficial influences in the digestive organs.

There's a Very Bright Future For Farming

For five to ten years beginning with 1919 the indications are that there will be such a big demand for everything that the farm can produce that, even with the utmost production possible, the supply won't be equal to it.

This will be especially true of high grade live stock—both hogs and cattle.

Shrewd farmers are already planning with this big future in mind, and including in their plans the best buildings that can be produced

It is time for every farmer to begin the task of planning for the biggest and best year of his life.
